Metro Photo Application and do you want a start button (kinda)?

This debate with Metro Desktop will be like a forum full of Apple fans and MS$ fans going over the assets and liabilities. So far I can tolerate metro desktop but my wife asked me to remove Windows 8 from our common computer upstairs as she was too frustrated with trying to deal with the Metro desktop.

While I hope this works for regular consumers as I too am seeing a bit of behavior I would deem as negative. While we all get our feet wet with the new Consumer Preview it should be interesting to watch Win 8 develop. While I can manage the Metro desktop the Metro Photo application seems to have taken over my Samsung digital camera.

Still working out the details and hopefully I can figure this out.

Details will follow.... In the mean time - if you like Windows 8 you may want to peek at this webpage...

You can get your start button back! <http://www.stardock.com/products/start8/>

Here is what it looks like... Almost gotta love it...
